

To the FCC :

I have noticed that the quality of news reported to the public has been declining in quality throughout these past years. I have noticed it especially on the coverage of the presidential election 2000 and the coverage of tragic event on 9/11/01.

I feel if you allow the cross-ownership ban of allowing media outlets such as newspapers and TV-broadcast stations to be consolidated further then the information reported to the public will be less diverse meaning that news and information will be reported in a similar manner which would contain more opinions and less facts and this will not serve the American people's interests in anyway except to keep us deaf, dumb and blind.

All Americans have the right to receive news and information that is accurate, unbiased and helpful and not to be preached to by big corporations who have one thing on their mind-profit. The news should not be all about making a profit instead it SHOULD be concerned about providing ethical and moral journalism to the people.
